

FIVE
REASONS
WHY A SHORT COURSE
CAN GO
A LONG WAY

In the demanding world that is the workforce, many find themselves missing out on opportunities to people with that extra skill on their resume or to someone that seems to have varying skills in many fields

1. SPEND LESS MONEY SPEND LESS TIME FOR A LOT OF OPPORTUNITIES

Rather than spending years trying to upgrade your qualifications and studying higher degrees, a short course is a perfect pathway that can provide you with an abundance of skills and advantages in a much shorter amount of time.

These assets can not only provide you with more work opportunities but also become transferable to your everyday life

2. TASTE-TEST A POSSIBLE CAREER PATH

Short courses be an alternative to spending a life-time in large tertiary institutions trying to discover the right pathway for your career.

Instead of taking a potentially detrimental and pricey leap into an uncertain career, why not dip your sense of uncertainty into a less financially risky yet beneficial situation for you, by doing a short course.

After doing so, you can be more sure of your wondering career dreams and you can take a step in the right direction.

3. GAIN AN EDGE WHILE STUDYING IN UNIVERSITY

Want to gain that extra edge while still studying at university?

A short course is a perfect opportunity to do so. While other students at university students have to wait a few years to gain recognised qualifications to put on their resume. Doing a short course can boost up your knowledge and add that extra, winning factor on your resume.

Moreover, when you do finally graduate, having that extra skill that other students were too busy to take the opportunity on, can make you stand out from other job seekers..

4. STUDY AT YOUR OWN PACE

With many of these courses, there is an opportunity to work at your own pace, with convenient times available to you- whether it be on the weekend or after working hours.

Whether you are a university student or working full-time, short courses are still the perfect opportunity to grow your knowledge and gain that edge, while still taking into consideration the inevitably fast-paced lives we all have.

So why throw away an advantageous opportunity to up skill yourself when it's so convenient?

5. GET A GREAT ASSET ON YOUR RESUME

The benefit that is associated with having that extra, recognised skill is quite substantial when having to compete with hundreds to thousands of other applicants for the same job. In a lot of instances, especially in this era of the workforce, many are entering an interdisciplinary field - with many expecting their employees to carry a number of additional attributes out of their usual skill set.

This is where short courses are majorly advantageous, proving you with that key skill and edge that can make you stand out from the others.

You may have the ability to carry through a specific task, but having a recognised certificate, diploma or licence allows employers to acknowledge you and your skills.

Australian Workforce provides a number of courses and licences.
